

Bathroom Designer of the Year

Project cost
£10,000 - £25,000

L-R Host Miles Jupp,
winners Kia Stanford
and Alex Reichardt
with SBID president
Diana Ceella

Winner Kia Stanford and Alex Reichardt

Kia Designs
Location: London
Project cost: £20,755
Cost does not include installation

Brief: "The clients wanted something which allowed for both the new and the old and would blow away friends and family. They also wanted the stunning skylight to be a real feature of the room."

What the judges said:

"Not only was this a really difficult, awkward space but both clients had very different tastes and meeting the brief was also a huge challenge. Kia and Alex have taken this couple on a complete design journey with spatial planning at the heart. With the overall design, fantastic use of space and choice of materials and finishes, they have shown that they understand more than just product. Blending all of the elements in the brief, they have not only succeeded but exceeded their client's expectations."

Sponsored by

Finalists

Steve Root Roots Kitchen Bedrooms Bathrooms

Location: Faversham
Project cost: £22,993
Cost includes installation
Brief: "My clients said they wanted something wonderful rather than functional. They needed a big bath in the middle of the room for long soaks after work, and a large walk-in shower for morning invigoration."

Joanne Sangster Ripples Reigate

Location: Reigate
Project cost: £22,071
Cost does not include installation
Brief: "My client was keen to have a room that mixed modern and traditional with a hint of industrial to make the room much brighter, design led and practical for their young growing family."

Yousef Mansuri CP Hart

Location: London
Project cost: £16,500 ex VAT
Cost does not include installation
Brief: "The brief was to create a larger, more luxurious bathroom for the master suite, by extending into the current dressing room. The space needed to be bright, light, elegant and timeless in line with the era of the Regency property."